

Thank you to the community wardens for coming into school to accompany the Mini Vinnies group to do a litter pick in the local area. The wardens are keen for children to recognise the importance of keeping their local environment clean and tidy and for them to be involved in community activities. In just a short time the children were shocked at the quantity of litter they found, especially in the church yard.

SAFEGUARDING
 For several months I have been advising parents about the dangers involved in allowing children unsupervised access to devices and sites, even those marketed as suitable for children. I have found an Online Safety support and advice leaflet for parents.

Have a look at this Science week website with your children. There are lots of online things going on!
<https://www.britishscienceweek.org/whats-on/>

Science Week starts on Friday March 10th. Across the school each class will be doing lots of science investigations and experiments. We will share these in the next newsletter.

At St Joseph's School we are READY to listen and learn. RESPECTFUL towards ourselves, resources and the environment and RESPONSIBLE for our actions.

As a school we have a subscription to Curriculum Visions which provides us access to a vast range of E-books which we are able to use to support our teaching in school. As part of our subscription, we have log in details which we are able to share with you in order that the children can access many of these books outside of school too. To access these, please visit www.curriculumvisions.com You will then need the following username and password details: Username: StJosephs/1 Password: Newton

World Book Day

We paired the older children with children in younger classes to share books together. Across the school there was a buzz of excitement and lots of conversations about favourite authors, characters and story themes. The children really enjoyed being together, reading, chatting and sharing their ideas.

Please scan the QR code to see the children sharing books in all the classes across the school.

The whole school community was proud of our hardy girls' football team. In extremely cold conditions, Mr L-S reported being frozen, the girls played cooperatively as a team, and even won a game! They all came back buzzing and smiling and spent most of lunch re-living the games.
